Dear Sam M. Mirian,

In recognition of your loyal support to ASME for over thirty-five years, the Society would like to show its appreciation by conferring Life membership upon you effective this program year. It is my pleasure to award you the enclosed Life Member certificate.

You are now considered "Dues Exempt" and are identified on the rolls of the Society as such. At present, there are over 10,000 "DE" members, among whom is a group known as the "Old Guard of ASME." This distinguished group of senior members is dedicated to the goal "to help young engineers bridge the gap between college and professional life and bring them closer to the activities of ASME." I hope you will also become a member of the Old Guard and participate in their programs.

I trust that you will continue to be active in other ASME programs and engineering affairs because there is great personal satisfaction to be derived. ASME also needs the knowledge and support of long-standing members like yourself.

Congratulations on your outstanding achievement! We greatly appreciate your many years of support in our continuing efforts toward excellence.

Sincerely,

Michael Kreisberg
